THE DEAD SENATOR.

FUNERAL OF SENATOR MORTON.

THE FUNERAL CEREMONIES AT INDIANAPOLIS—ELOQUENT EULOGIES PRONOUNCED.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., November 5.—A cold rain set in last night and fell steadily all the morning. The streets and crossings are in a muddy condition. The early morning trains brought large accessions to the numbers already in the city. Additional arrivals of distinguished visitors are: Governor Young of Ohio; the President and Board of Aldermen of Cincinnati; the Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Cincinnati; a delegation composed of Richard Smith of the Gazette of Cincinnati, James Speed of Louisville, Secretary Evarts of Washington, Murat Halstead of the Cincinnati Commercial, the Hon. J. Don Cameron of Pennsylvania, C. J. Filley, Postmaster at St. Louis, and Frederick H. M. Lord of Springfield, Ill.; a delegation from Wabash College and additional military companies from Logansport, Terre Haute, and Crawfordsville arrived this morning. Fully 25,000 people from interior towns arrived this morning. Nearly all the roads are running extra trains. Expressions in recognition of the death of a distinguished Senator were made from nearly every pulpit in the city yesterday, and several sermons especially devoted to the events were preached. The remains were continued in state at the Court House till 10.30 A. M., when the guards crossed bayonets at the east entrance, and after clearing the ground the pall-bearers bore the casket to the hearse, which, under the escort of the Logansport Greys, moved to the residence on Pennsylvania street. It is estimated that from 60,000 to 70,000 people viewed the remains whilst they were reposing in state at the Court House. The remains at the residence from 11 to 12 o'clock were left with the family.

At 12 o'clock the Roberts Park Church was thrown open, and ladies and aged persons admitted to the spacious galleries, which ran around the interior of the large edifice and seat over a thousand. The galleries were soon filled, and on the arrival of the funeral cortege from the residence the main body of the building was occupied by the family, friends, committees, delegations, etc., and the corridors and aisles by all who could obtain admission, a vast concourse remaining outside the church which was unable to find room. The service at the church commenced at 1 o'clock with the reading of the Scriptures by the Rev. Myron W. Reed, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, who then read selections from the nineteenth Psalm and the twelfth of Ecclesiastes, which was followed by prayer by Dr. Henry Day of the First Baptist Church. A voluntary was then offered by the full choir, after which a sermon was read by Joseph Bradford Cleaver of the Central Christian Church. His text was from Samuel, iv. "And Saul was dead." He reviewed the Senator's life and character, and made a close and searching analysis of the prominent features in politics and public acts of the deceased. Mr. Cleaver said:

Senator Morton has been the most prominent man of the last decade. His speeches in the Senate during the period of his greatest usefulness settled the policy of the Government, and, if it could be said that his advocacy of a measure did not insure its success, it is certain that his opposition would procure its defeat. In summing up his life and services let us not forget his humble origin and growth upon a stubborn soil. As a lawyer he achieved eminent success, and his judicial attainments were so esteemed that but for his physical infirmities he would have received the appointment of Chief Justice of the United States. His method caused him to seek the ultimate end of a policy, and he never hazarded the attainment of a possible result for that which at times seemed most feasible. He was courageous, sagacious, wise in council, swift to devise, sure to execute, patient, enduring, patriotic. Under like circumstances he would have been a William of Orange. His opponents charge that he was ambitious. He was ambitious to serve, to bear burdens and to assume responsibilities from which others would shrink. He was ambitious to bear the brunt and take the hard blows. He was ambitious, but his was a grand ambition. He has been charged with being inconsistent. His was a bright and glorious inconsistency, to change his course when convinced that he was wrong, and to falter not when conviction reached him. He has been accused of showing hatred, this accusation is false. A Senator, who has been his bitterest enemy, has made this acknowledgment to the honor of the deceased Senator. Toward the South he bore no malice. Those who criticise him forget that he over and over again declared that the South, by adopting the political situation, would find herself restored to political peace and would promote her own prosperity; but he did not believe that the way to help the oppressed was to proclaim that peace meant forgiveness to those who not only remained unrepentant, but did not want to repent. He did not believe it the meaning of the prophecy that the lion and the lamb should lie down together with the lamb inside the lion. He believed there was a difference between loyalty and treason; that treason was criminal and should be punished. He did not fawn nor truckle.

The reverend gentleman then reviewed Senator Morton's services as Governor, alluding to his energetic measures to raise volunteers for the war and his organization of sanitary agencies to look after the comfort of the sick and wounded soldiers. Mr. Cleaver further adverted to the Senator's labors in Congress, his self-abnegation—enduring trials until unable longer to resist the dissolution so long approaching. The eulogist proceeded:

He died as he lived, uncomplainingly, courageously. Among his latest utterances was an avowal of personal belief in the truths of Christianity, of faith in Christ, whose teachings of mercy, of justice, of righteousness, had been the pole-star of the Senator's public life. His voice is now hushed forever, but his influence for good will linger while love of liberty and hatred of oppression remain. He did the work of his later years with the same good faith and consciousness that he had applied to the drudgery of youth. By the side of his pulseless heart every murmur of calumny is hushed; envy and jealousy are silent, while the people whom he loved so fondly and served so truly, with aching hearts and tearful eyes commit his mortal remains to their asylum of repose in the Commonwealth upon whose proud shield his name and fame have cast a brighter luster and an added glory. Men and women of Indiana, he was yours, your brother, your friend, your pride and boast; but he belongs now to the nation and to humanity. Wise men of every age will tell to posterity that it must be well with a Government, when from the humblest ranks of its people can germ and grow and develop such a life and such a career as were the life and career of Oliver Perry Morton.

At the conclusion of the Rev. Mr. Cleaver's sermon, the Rev. Dr. J. H. Bayliss pronounced an extended eulogy on the late Senator's private life, extolling him as a model of all domestic virtues. The Rev. S. K. Hoshorn followed with prayer, at the close of which the procession was formed. A hymn was then sung and the benediction pronounced, after which the body was placed in the hearse and the funeral cortege proceeded to Crow Hill Cemetery.

THE SILVER BILL.

TEXT OF THE MEASURE.

The silver remonetization bill introduced by Bland, of Missouri, and passed by the House on Monday, is as follows:

Be it enacted, etc. SECTION 1.—That there shall be coined at the several mints of the United States silver dollars of the weight of 412½ grains Troy of standard silver as provided in the Act of January 18, 1837, on which shall be the devices and superscriptions provided by said Act, which coins, together with all the silver dollars heretofore coined by the United States of like weight and fineness, shall be a legal-tender at their nominal value for all debts and dues, public and private, except where otherwise provided by contract; and any owner of silver bullion may deposit the same at any United States coinage mint or assay office to be coined into such dollars for his benefit upon the same terms and conditions as gold bullion is deposited for coinage under existing law.

SEC. 2.—All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

When the roll was called it was found that there had been 163 votes in its favor, and only 34 against it. The affirmative was, however, little more than one-half of the full House, and considerably less than [illegible] thirds of it. Only one or two members either from New York or Pennsylvania were in their seats, and many from Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut [and o]ther States were also absent. As the [absen]ce of one Representative, who, if [prese]nt, would have voted in the negative, [has th]e same effect upon the passage of the [bill a]s that of two who would have voted [in the] affirmative, these figures do not show the relative strength of the silver and [anti-s]ilver parties in the House. The following was the vote upon the bill.

STATE NEWS.

Aroostook.

The Pioneer says that W. H. Palmer, who was recently arrested at Gorham on charge of cheating by false pretences was brought to Bridgewater, where he was examined before Trial Justice J. R. Weed and discharged, there appearing no evidence whatever to warrant the grave charge preferred. When the justice announced his discharge, the storm of applause which went up from the large crowd present nearly "brought the house down."

Kennebec.

The Journal says that as a measure of economy, the trustees of the Sprague manufacturing Company have abolished their agency in Augusta. They have sent their horses, harnesses and other equipments to Rhode Island, discharged their teamsters, farmers, etc., and will hereafter do no outside work requiring help of this kind. Mr. J. R. Moore, the retiring agent, has been in the employ of the company for eleven years, the most of the time as clerk, and since the resignation of Col. DeWitt as agent, filling both positions to the acceptance of the corporation.

Oxford.

The Democrat says that about five o'clock Wednesday, Oct. 31st, two streams of fire issued from the floor of the north mill of the [illegible] factory at Paris, giving the workmen the first intimation that a conflagration was in progress. The fire originated from a blower under the sand wheel. The fire was subdued by hard work. The loss is considerable on account of damage to stock.

The Press says that the large two-story building in Paris owned by Samuel F. Briggs, and used as a blacksmith, carriage and paint shop, was found to be on fire Tuesday morning in the basement. By the promptness of the fire department the flames were extinguished in about two hours without serious damage except to the basement where the fire broke out. Insured $1200, damage $200.

The Democrat says the schools at Oxford have been interrupted this term by sickness among the children. Diphtheria and scarlatina have prevailed.

SPLINTERS.

When a physician deserts his profession for the pulpit the inference is that he can preach better than he can practice.

Nobody can tell how many disputes for the front side of the bed have been settled by moving the bedstead into the centre of the room.

A Yankee editor wishes no bodily harm to his subscribers, but he hopes that some of them in arrears will be seized with a remittent fever.

When young Jenkinson told his father that he'd only been out on a little lark the old gentleman muttered that he "guessed there was more swallow than lark."

The Paducah News has discovered that there are four stages of alcoholism, "elevation, titteration, gulleration and desperation." Some of the lecturers mention a fifth "stion," beginning with a d.

Two men met one day on the piazza of a hotel in North Platte, Neb., when one claimed that Nebraska was all a good country, or should be—"all it lacks," said he, "is good society and water." "My good Lord!" said the other, "that is all hell lacks."

"I lived with him nineteen years," says an Indiana applicant for divorce, "and all the clothes he ever bought me was a bunch of hair pins and a tooth brush." You can see by this what a hard time she had to keep well dressed.

Those queer looking supplements that accompany each issue of a well-known New York fashion paper are not war maps, as some people believe, but they are only the pattern outlines of the new fashion in dresses to be worn this season by the women.

"The sentence of the court is," said Judge Porter, a popular Irish magistrate, to a notorious drunkard, "that you be confined in jail for the longest period the court will allow, and I hope you will spend the time in cursing whiskey." "Be jabers I will, and Porter, too!" was the answer.

The other day a mean man out in Western Iowa went off into a quiet country place and died so quick that his wife got all his insurance money before the company had time to fail. The president says he never felt so swindled and cut up since he has been in the business.—Burlington Hawkeye.

The telephone may be well enough as a musical disseminator, but what the country needs is the invention of some sort of musical conductor which may be applied to hand organs and tin-pan pianos in such a manner as to conduct the "music" noiselessly off, and damp it in some out-of-the-way place, where it will not become offensive.

A boy came along holding a very dirty dog, and asked the gentleman of the house, "Don't you want to buy a dog, mister?" "What kind of a dog is it?" asked the gentleman. The boy looked puzzled. "Well," said he, "it is part terrier." "And what is the rest?" asked the gentleman. "The rest," answered the boy, "why, the rest is—is just dog."

An exchange says that bats introduce bedbugs in dwellings. We never were in a dwelling where bats did anything of the sort. All the bedbugs we have met have seemed perfectly well acquainted and familiar with us without waiting for a bat or anybody else to introduce them.

After one of the operations of a celebrated surgeon, the resident student stood looking at the pieces of morality lying on the surgeon's table. "What are you doing, sir?" sharply demanded the surgeon. "I am waiting for you to point out which piece is to be put to bed and which is to be buried."

COMMON SENSE VS EDUCATION.—Many farmers hesitate to join a club or Grange organization, from a diffidence founded on a lack of early schooling, and from a difficulty in expressing their ideas in public meeting. The community at large is singularly ignorant of what education is. Education undoubtedly gives to every man the chance of showing what is in him. Yet true education is simply the development of what is in the man; it can create nothing, it can only do for the mind what the farmer does for his fruit trees; he cannot make them, but may improve them. So every member of a club who reads standard books and publications, and reflects on what he reads; who investigates the operations of nature as developed by his daily contact with her forces; who discusses and compares his experiences with those of his fellowmen; who tests all new theories, implements, methods, with good sound common sense; who is willing that the world, through the humble organization of his village clubs, should have the benefit of his knowledge—such an individual is daily strengthening himself and improving others; such a one is reaping the true benefits of real education.—Boston Cultivator.

THE REPUBLICAN DISCONTENT

[From the N. Y. Tribune]

Some of the friends of President Hayes are making the mistake of misjudging both the causes and the character of the Republican discontent. THE SILVER SCHEME.

We publish on our first page to-day the yea and nay vote on the silver remonetization bill with a list of the absentees. The text ... boldly acknowledged attempt to debase the standard of values and obstruct the path to resumption now so nearly reached. We have seen no explanation of the remarkable absence of ninety three members when the vote was taken upon so important a question and it is certainly to be regretted that so small a number went on record against the programme of the silver inflationists. In this connection having already cited to the ... paper in this city the opinions of the leading Democratic organ of New York, we now call its attention to the following expressions of the Boston Post the leading Democratic organ in New England:

It is a wholly immoral act and deserves the instant reprobation of all men who are honest and intend to remain so.

* * * Silver, at a constantly fluctuating and a largely depreciated value, can not be called honest money in which to pay debts legally, and its very uncertainty will demonstrate with every transaction that there is really but one unit and standard of value and that is gold.

* * * When public men deliberately vote to pay the common obligations in clipped, debased or depreciated currency, they are doing that for which they can enter no defense whatever that will be accepted at the bar of enlightened and honest public opinion.

The Advertiser and the Journal with characteristic unfairness, claim the election of Governor Rice as a triumph for the policy. Then we suppose that Gen Butler came home purposely to help elect the endorsement platform, and that Gov Boutwell, Collector Simmons, Gov Talbot, Hon John I Baker and other stalwart Republicans took hold of the machine in order to help the policy along. Oh no neighbors be honest for once and acknowledge that the non-policy Republicans are so fixed in their convictions that they do not fly off and bolt because they can't have everything their own way.—Fairfield ...

Lloyd Garrison fails ... to grasp the exact situation and ... his warnings as to the certain results to be expected from the lapse of the beneficent policy toward the negro population of the South, that had its foundation in the generous feeling brought out in the Union cause towards the unhappy, but loyal class. [illegible] the doors were reopened [illegible] Committee on Foreign Relations and Privileges and Elections [illegible] caused by the death of Senator Morton after which the Senate [illegible] adjourned till to-morrow

House

The House was opened [illegible] prayer [illegible] the Journal [illegible] Committee of the Whole (Cox of New York in the Chair) on the army appropriation bill

The general debate upon the bill was limited to two hours The House was addressed by Mr Atkins of Tennessee chairman of the appropriation committee He explained that the estimate of the War Department for the present year amounted to $32,000,000, while the bill appropriates $26,000,000 a decrease of $3,000,000 from the appropriation of last year The bill [illegible] pays of 22,000 men for the first four months of the year, and 20,000 for the remaining eight months

The General of the army had been before the Committee and had stated positively that there were less than 20,000 men in the army at the present time He said he was [illegible] in favor of reducing the army to 18,000 but he did not think it was [illegible] to do so since the army had been so long without pay and the [illegible] of reducing the force might delay [illegible] passage of the bill With regard to [illegible] restrictions placed upon last year's bill he said it had been left out of the present bill because the committee did not [illegible] in view of recent events, in view of the action of the President in carrying out the time honored doctrine of non intervention and in allowing States to regulate their own affairs in their own way, it was necessary to place a restricting clause in the present bill He supposed some of his friends would find fault with the committee for that omission, but he declared if the same circumstances existed now as eight months ago he would have stood squarely by the restriction no matter what was the consequence

In answer to a question by Mr Hooker Mr Singleton of Miss a member of the Appropriation Committee said General Sherman had appeared before that committee and stated that at the time of the President's inauguration there were in the southern States four regiments of 800 each, two of which had since been withdrawn

Mr Schleicher inquired if the committee had taken the trouble to examine whether the strength of the army suffered for the protection of the border.

Mr Atkins replied that in his opinion the army was sufficiently large for that purpose

Mr Foster a member of the Appropriation Committee, remarked in reply to Mr Schleicher that the committee had taken pains to inform itself and that all officers said the present force was not sufficient.

Mr Atkins said he would now yield ten minutes to the gentleman from New York, Wood.

Mr Wood said that the remarks he proposed to submit had reference to the general condition of expenditure and receipts of the Government, but as his statement would occupy longer than ten minutes, he would take some other opportunity to express his views

[illegible] said it was the opinion of the General of the Army that on the 8th of November not more than 20,000 men were in the army To-day, however, a statement has been received from the Paymaster-General [illegible] an increase in the pay appropriation because a mistake was made as to the number of men, his information being that the present force is about 22,000 men The difficulties into which the Committee on Appropriations had fallen, arose from the fact that it felt it its bounden duty to reduce the appropriation for the army and the army itself. The members of the minority had no desire to embarrass the action of the majority. They believe, however, a force of 25,000 men was as small as the needs of the country warranted. They were not disposed to make factious opposition to the action of the majority. They would perhaps test the sense of the House on one or two questions, but not further. His own impression was that Congress ought to make an appropriation for 25,000 men The provisions for a less number was an invitation to Indian hostilities and Mexican raids He predicted a deficiency bill for at least $2,500,000 would have to be passed for this year's support of the army.

To an inquiry by Mr Blackburn, Mr Atkins replied that the whole cavalry force would be 10,000 men, but the language of the bill was that cavalry companies might be recruited to 100 men each, not that they should be

Mr Conger suggested whether there ought not to be a provision in the bill to allow a moderate rate of interest on the pay already due the army He instanced a case in which a widow of a dead soldier had to sell her claim for pay at 8 per cent of the whole amount in order to get money to bury her husband

Mr Money of Miss, asked Conger to give the name and particulars of that case

Mr Conger—The gentleman need not [illegible] with such alacrity after the case. It is enough for me to say I have had information within the last twenty four hours After some further discussion with Mr Money Mr Conger continued

Mr Phillips of Kansas said this morning the Adjutant-General told him that from the best data the army stood about 22,000 Nominally the army was 25,000 strong He wished to ask the chairman of the Appropriation Committee if he desired to keep it down to the standard to which it had been reduced by Joseph and Sitting Bull When Gen Gibbon attacked Joseph he had six companies of men, with but 150 men in all, and the Committee on Appropriations made its appropriations on that basis

Mr Durham said the gentleman on the other side of the House had endeavored to place the responsibility of the failure of the army bill last year on the Democratic party They were entirely wrong The House had passed the bill but the Senate failed to do so and it was then the duty of the President to call an extra session — The responsibility, therefore if there was any, rested upon the Republican party and the President.

Mr Foster asked if the gentleman from Kentucky had not understood the General of the army to say the Committee had better disband the army than reduce it to 20,000

Mr Durham answered that if the committee had pandered to the prejudices of those who liked the martial tramp of an army [illegible] increase the army to 50,000 The General had expressed the desire to have 40,000 He did not think it was necessary to put the restriction clause of last year's bill into the present bill since the President had stepped upon the good old Democratic ground of non intervention with the local government of States In conclusion he gave notice that in the next army appropriation bill he would not vote to make an appropriation for more than 15,000

Mr Singleton defended the action of the Committee on Appropriations, and said he had taken notes of Gen Sherman's statement and that he had estimated the present strength of the army at 20,000 men remarking that by reason of death, desertion and discharge, the companies have been reduced to 20 or 27 men He had stated so positively from personal inspection The Committee acting on the principle that it was to make an appropriation for the support of the army, had provided for 22,000 men for 4 months and for 20,000 men for the remainder of the year What else could the Committee do It had not undertaken to legislate as to the increasing or diminishing of that number

Gen Sherman had been asked whether he thought the army should be used for the purpose of putting down riots in the several States and he had answered emphatically that it should, and it was in that view that General Sherman thought the army should be increased For himself (Singleton) he wished it understood that he was opposed to a standing army for the purpose of interfering with riots in States until at least it should be demonstrated to his mind that the State authorities were not able to put them down

Mr Foster—Does the gentleman object to the use of the army in putting down riots in West Virginia and Maryland?

Mr Singleton—I object to the use of the army for any such purpose as it has been used in the past

Mr Foster repeated his question but got no direct answer

Mr Singleton addressed him off to Mr Conger's speech and asked why he [illegible] the fault of not providing for the army [illegible] and he asserted that the whole difficulty had been on account of the proper proviso that troops should not be used for the purpose of coercing men at the ballot box — The President who had been elected by such means had himself agreed with the House in that respect and had withdrawn the troops from the South virtually declaring they should not be there What else had taken place since? Did they not hear the doctrines from Ohio and Pennsylvania endorsing the Democratic party?

Foster—Indorsing the President?

Singleton—Very well endorsing the President who endorsed the Democratic side of the House

In the further course of the discussion Mr Singleton stated that if the troops there in the South had been on the Indian frontier the Custer massacre never would have occurred

Mr Bryan asked Mr Singleton whether he objected to having troops stationed in the South

Mr Singleton replied that he did not but that he did object to their being used for political purposes

The time for general debate having expired, the Clerk proceeded to read the bill by section

Mr. Schleicher offered an amendment striking out the clause which prohibits the recruiting of the army above its present strength. He said if the army was composed of only 18,000 men, as some gentlemen had stated the bill would not allow that number to be increased He called attention to the fact that the President had given orders for the army to follow the Mexican marauders over the border Gen Ord had been afraid to do so because the only available moveable force he had on the border after garrisoning the posts was 800 men, while there were thousands of men on the other side of the Rio Grande who defied the United States government and their own government

The United States Government was in the shameful condition of being defied and treated in that manner. There would be a limit to the patience of the people on the frontier and when that limit was reached there would be war. The show of force, power and sternness was the only way to avoid difficulties Those were the only arguments the Mexicans could understand

Mr. Blount opposed the amendment and called attention to the fact that in 1866 when the Mexican frontier was as large as it is now, the army was composed of 15,000 men

Mr Calkins, of Ind was in favor of increasing the army to 50,000 men The recent riots had shown conclusively that for the protection of life and property something was needed besides State militia

Mr. Lutterell of Cal—Does my friend propose to keep a standing army to suppress the riots of laboring men?

Mr Townsend of N Y —No, to put down the heathen Chinee (Laughter)

Mr. Calkins hoped his friend from California did not claim that real workingmen were responsible for those riots He hoped he did not propose to libel the working men in that way

Mr. Lutterell—Do you mean to say those were not the riots of the workingmen?

Mr. Calkins—They were not laboring men

Mr. Lutterell—If they were not workingmen they must have been Republican politicians

Calkins—I do not know whether they were or not but I know those States which were Democratic called as lustily for the strong arm of the Government as the gentlemen does to suppress the Heathen Chinee (Laughter)

Mr. Baker of Ind., addressed the committee in favor of an amendment.

Mr. Mills of Tex., advocated his colleague's amendment

Mr. Atkins of Tenn , expressed regret at seeing members on his own side of the House commit themselves to the doctrine of a large standing army for political purposes. If it was expected peace was to be preserved by the army it would require not only 25,000, but four times that number. A quarter of a million of men could not keep the peace if the strong arm of power was to be relied on. He believed an appropriation should be made to increase the stock of small arms and encourage military organizations in States, and that would do more than anything to remedy the evil.

Mr. Blackburn moved to reduce the force of the army to 15,000 men. He denied for himself and members on his side of the House that the proper method of preventing such disorders as disgraced the country last summer, was to be found in an increase of the army, or in supplying more canister and grape-shot to shoot down the impoverished laborers of the land who dared to complain of robberies of which they were victims by reason of the persistent class of legislation of the last fifteen years (Some applause in the galleries ) They were not willing to admit that such a process of repression, coupled with the wholesale murder of a starving populace, was either statesmanship, fair dealing, or manhood properly illustrated. He gave notice that he would call the yeas and nays on his amendment so as to test the sense of the House whether it would propose to redress the wrongs of impoverished citizens of the country by an increase of military power (More applause in the galleries )

Mr Pridemore said an army of 5,000 was amply sufficient for the protection of the border

Mr Hewitt of N Y said the question of reorganization of the army demanded more time than the Committee on Appropriations had time to give it The present bill simply paid an army which had nobly done duty during the past eight months, without remuneration let the United States discharge its just obligations and leave to the future the question of an increase or decrease

Mr Wright of Pa said that he represented the district where the troops were stationed during the recent riots Those troops had not been introduced at the instance of the [illegible] of the district but came at the solicitation of the controllers of mines He thought then all the time and would [illegible] soldiers to [illegible] and he favored the reduction of the army to 15,000 men

Mr Clymer thought the bill should be passed without further reduction of the army and that the officers and men should receive their just dues leaving the question of reorganization to be considered at more length in the future

Mr Culberson said the Representatives of Texas did not ask the army to be increased to 50,000 in order to wage war against the people of the United States, but in order that some security be given to the Texas frontier against the incursions of murderous Mexicans If the army was reduced to 15,000 the quota allowed Texas would be so small that in the future, as in the past the people of the United States would be murdered there and its flag insulted in the very presence of troops

Mr Blount said if the matter was so grievous and there was to be blood between the two countries there should be a separate measure passed and not one tacked on the appropriation bill

Without action the committee rose and the House at 4 40 adjourned

TRUE ECONOMY is not in buying the lowest price articles The best is cheapest. So with the fine cultivated and plantation grown spices imported by Messrs Pinckney, Jackson & Co of London and New York I have just received a shipment of these goods and would specially invite the attention of all consumers to them. These spices are not only absolutely pure, but are without a doubt the finest ever imported into this country. I confidently recommend them as being really of unusual merit.

NEW LINE The Age says It is reported on good authority that the Portland, Machias & Penobscot Steamboat Company are making arrangements for running a boat between Bucksport and Rockland through the winter, commencing as soon as the river closes, and touching at the usual landings between those points Arrangements are to be made whereby through tickets to Portland and Boston will be issued, thus forming a new winter line from Bangor to the west It is said that the favorite steamer Charles Houghton, which has been running from Rockland to Deer Isle and Sedgwick this summer will be put on the route

HE LOST HIS PASSAGE. Wednesday a fellow by the name of John McGlinchy started for Boston on the boat. He had been imbibing quite extensively of the ardent and when the boat reached Bucksport he went on to the wharf and the boat left him He then started up town and in a short time the officers of that place found it necessary to look him up In the morning officer Ames went to his cell, when the fellow asked him how long he had been on the force, and on being told that he had served for some time, he then wanted to know how long that cell had been built The officer told him that the cell had been there for about fifteen years, when the fellow replied that he knew better than that, as he had been locked up too many times not to know all about the cells. The officer then asked him where he thought he was. The fellow laughed at the absurdity of such a question, but finally said that he was in the Bangor station house. As he appeared to be in rather a demoralized condition, officer Ames let him go on the promise that he would leave the place

DEATH OF WM. W. SAWYER, ESQ., OF CALAIS. A despatch from Calais brings the sad news of the death of William W. Sawyer, Esq , at his home in that city at 9 o'clock Wednesday evening, after a sickness of several months. The deceased was Manager of the St. Croix and Penobscot Railroad and was widely known throughout the State. In Calais he was highly esteemed as a citizen and, his enterprise and energy will be seriously missed Mr. Sawyer was injured last winter by being thrown from a snow plough on which he was riding while breaking out a passage for trains, and since then he had steadily failed in health and for some time past had been confined to his bed His relatives were summoned by telegraph on Monday last and arrived in time to be with him in his last hours Mr Sawyer was a man of remarkably equable and genial disposition, ever zealous in promoting the happiness of others and having a pleasant and smiling word for all His recreation from labor was found in domestic and social enjoyment, and he was a model of devotion to his family He leaves a widow and five beautiful children to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father

A GOOD IDEA In the year 1872 some of the citizens of Belfast presented Capt Charles Sanford with a huge circular granite trough weighing about four tons, which was known as the 'Sanford Punch Bowl' Capt Sanford intended to take it to Boston but in loading it on to the boat it fell overboard and was afterwards raised and brought to this city where it has remained on the steamboat wharf On the suggestion of Inspector Sparks it was recently purchased by the city at a low figure and has been placed on the site of the old pump in Pickering Square, and connected with the water pipes in such a manner that it is always full of water which runs in at one pipe and out at another so that there is no danger of its freezing The earth will be raised about a foot around it and then thoroughly paved This will be a grand place to water horses as the trough is large enough for at least ten horses to drink at the same time

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE For CATARRH,

IS UNIVERSALLY RECOMMENDED.

We have just received a communication from nearly every Druggist in New England and the West, and the testimony is universal, in favor of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH. We believe that there never was a remedy so popular wherever known, and certainly we feel that never was one more deserving of praise. Founded upon correct scientific principles, and formulated by the most accomplished physicians to meet the severest forms of Catarrh, the cures made by it have not only been numerous, but so remarkable as to excite public attention and insure its sale to an extent undreamed of by any similar remedy, everywhere compounded.

While many are anxious to lend public their testimony, in favor of the Radical Cure, and acting this number of may be found many of our most respected citizens, [illegible] publicly identified with a loathsome disease. Hence, in the following case we are unable to give the name, but are permitted to refer those who may call upon us personally to him, and to state the severity and condition of the case before and after using the Radical Cure, and also that the gentleman occupies a responsible office in one of our State institutions. We quote:

"I would not for the world permit my name to be used, although I have no doubt it would be of benefit to many now suffering as I have suffered. But I give you a brief statement of my case.

"For two years I have taken but little of potatoes at [illegible] ed a single night without getting up once or twice to free my throat from the matter that had dropped into it during sleep, and finally it coughed during all the time. Since taking the RADICAL CURE I have taken no potatoes or any drink, have slept soundly every night without interruption for the first, not a particle of matter has been dropped into my throat during sleep, and every symptom of the case has left me."

A wonderful result truly, all will say, who know or can realize the extent and severity of this case. The gentleman has used eighteen bottles. This must satisfy the sceptical that there is great merit in the Radical Cure. Its mode of preparation is new and original. Ignoring the old practice and remedies, Dr. Sanford selected a new field, and has demonstrated his method to be the only proper and most successful treatment.

The following recommendations are from

who are competent witnesses to the work it is daily doing.

Sanford's Radical Cure has proved the best Remedy for relieving Catarrh. W. M. FELLOWS, Haverhill, Mass.

I am selling large quantities of your Sanford's Radical Cure. DR. WENTWORTH, Biddeford, Me.

Sanford's Radical Cure is having a good sale. It is just what the people have been wanting. A. M. GERRY, So. Paris, Me.

I have kept Sanford's Radical Cure on hand since its first introduction, and there is good satisfaction in its use. I have been unequalled by any other similar preparation within my knowledge. W. H. WILLIS, M.D., Reading, Mass.

I have sold Sanford's Radical Cure for a year or more, and it stands the test the best of any similar remedy I have ever sold. WILL H. OWEN, Milo, Me.

We recommend no other cure, and I have no trouble in selling it. L. P. EVANS & Co., Garland, Me.

Sanford's Radical Cure has given universal satisfaction to all my customers, and above all other remedies is a success. H. F. CAREY, Haverhill, Mass.

Sanford's Radical Cure sells well, and is very much liked. Mrs. E. P. WING, Sangerville, Me.

Which opens with November, 1876, begins

A short and very entertaining Serial from the French, "The Kingdom of the Greedy," a story adapted to the Thanksgiving Season. Another serial, of absorbing interest to boys,

"HIS OWN MASTER," by J. T. Trowbridge, author of the "Jack Hazard Stories," begins in the Christmas Holiday number.

Besides serial stories, Christmas stories, lively sketches, poems and pictures for the holidays, and some astonishing illustrations of Oriental sports, with drawings by Siamese artists, the Christmas Holiday Number of St Nicholas, superbly illustrated, contains a very interesting paper,

"THE BOYS OF MY BOYHOOD," by William Cullen Bryant.

"The Horse Hotel," a lively article, by Charles A. Barnard, splendidly illustrated; "The Clock in the Sky," by Richard A. Proctor; "A Christmas Play for Homes or Sunday Schools" by Dr. Eggleston, "The Peterkins' Christmas Tree," by Lucretia P. Hale, "Poetry and Carols of Winter," by Lucy Larcom, with pictures.

Do Not Fail to Buy ST. NICHOLAS for the Christmas Holidays. PRICE 25 cents.

During the year there will be interesting papers for boys, by William Cullen Bryant, John G. Whittier, Thomas Hughes, William Howitt, Dr. Holland, George MacDonald, Sanford B. Hunt, Frank R. Stockton, and others.

There will be stories, sketches, and poems, of special interest to girls, by Harriet Prescott Spofford, Susan Coolidge, Sarah Winter Kellogg, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Louisa Alcott, Lucretia P. Hale, Celia Thaxter, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others. There will be also with maps, showing "The Stars of Each Month," which will be likely to surpass in interest any series on popular science recently given to the public.

AMUSEMENT AND INSTRUCTION, with FUN AND FROLIC, and WIT AND WISDOM, will be mingled as heretofore, and ST. NICHOLAS will continue to delight the young and give pleasure to the old.

THE LONDON LITERARY WORLD says:

"There is no magazine for the young that can be said to equal this choice production of Scribner's press. All the articles, whether in prose or rhyme, are throbbing with vitality. * * * The literature and artistic illustrations are both superb."

The London Daily News says: "We wish we could point out its equal in our own periodical literature."

GOOD NEWS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

To meet the demand for a cheaper ST. NICHOLAS Gift-Book, the price of vols. I and II has been reduced to $3 each. The three volumes, in an elegant library case, are sold for $10 (in full gilt, $15), so that all may give their children a complete set. These volumes contain more attractive material than fifty dollars' worth of the ordinary children's books.

Subscription price, $3 a year. The three bound volumes and a subscription for this year, only $12. Subscribe with the nearest newsdealer, or send money in check, or P. O. money order, or in registered letter, to

LETTER CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carriers when addressed to street and number. People should inform their correspondents of above and have their letters addressed accordingly.

Persons leaving their address at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is much more convenient to have the street and number on, and they will be delivered earlier than if the same is put on at the office. Carriers make two deliveries daily, the first trip supplying the extremes of their routes.

Collections are made morning and evening in season for important mails—the down town boxes fifteen and the up town boxes thirty minutes before closing mails at the office.

Hours at the Carrier's Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9½ A. M., and from 5 to 5½ P. M. Sundays from 8½ to 9½ A. M.

Any irregularities in the Carriers' department should be reported to the office.

ENVELOPES.

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and request to return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, (samples of which may be seen at the Cashier's window,) when ordered in lots of not less than 500.

A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State, across the left end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with.

The public are earnestly recommended to procure Stamped envelopes with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed, if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge.

First class envelopes of above furnished at $22.80 per thousand.

Stamps cut from Stamped Envelopes cannot be used to prepay postage. The use of such Stamps is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars.

Stamped Envelopes, spoiled in directing, are redeemed at this office.

The undersigned, administrator of the estate of John Y. Said real estate is the same described in a deed recorded in the Registry of Deeds of said County.
